Five Miners Trapped 14 Hours By Slide Rescued

36-Inch Auger Used To Drill Shaft To Men

STEBENVILLE, Ohio, June 26 (P)—All five miners, trapped 14 hours by a cave-in, were rescued tonight.

All had survived the ordeal in good condition.

A huge auger drilled into the hillside under which the men were trapped. At a depth of about 200 feet it struck into the chamber into which they had been walled by the slide. As the 36-inch-diameter bit was withdrawn, the men crawled through the hole behind the drill. No one had to go in after them.

The hole which provided the avenue to safety for the five miners was the third drilled since the mining auger arrived at the scene late today. Rock slides had blocked the other two drilling efforts.

More than two-score rescue workers were spurred in their efforts earlier tonight when the second hole drilled enabled them to hear human voices inside the mine. That hole had gone in 180 feet.

The workers said they yelled at the trapped men, heard voices in response but could not distinguish words and could not tell how many men were alive.

The rescue workers thought at that time they were about 100 feet from the men, but they decided to bore another shaft at a different angle to avoid rock falls. All day, under a broiling sun, they had worked to open the mine shaft near the bottom of a 50-foot pit in a desolate strip mining region. There is a cliff above, and the shaft runs back under the cliff.

First in one hole and then another, near the base of the pit, fans blew air into the hillside, in the hope oxygen would reach the men through cracks in the rock and coal. One passage caved in, so another was used. Workers also drilled an eight-inch hole through the top of the hill to insure an air supply.

U.N.C. Rejects Reds' Demand

PANMUNJOM, Korea, June 26 (P)—The U.N. Command, with modern weapons on the way, brushed aside today a demand by Communist North Korea for an international conference to arrange withdrawal of all foreign troops from this divided nation.

Maj. Gen. Chung Kook Rook presented the North Korean demand, which is backed by Red China, at an acrimonious meeting of the Joint Military Armistice Commission in this truce village. The weather matched the debate. It was hot and stuffy. There were charges of bad faith from both sides of the narrow conference table.

"An international conference with a broad participation by the countries concerned must be convened at an early date," Chung declared, "to arrange the withdrawal of all foreign troops from Korea, to guarantee a lasting peace and to facilitate a peaceful solution of the Korean question."

Maj. Gen. Homer L. Litzberg of the U.S. Marines, the U.N. commander, said such a political parley and its aims were "not proper subjects to be discussed at a military conference."

"Therefore," he added, "they are rejected." Litzberg told the Reds the present situation in Korea "would not have arisen had your side proceeded in good faith to negotiate the peaceful settlement envisaged by the (Geneva) armistice agreement."

Hurricane Due To Strike Gulf Coast Tonight

NEW ORLEANS, June 26 (P)—Hurricane Audrey, an overgrown baby spinning at 100 miles per hour, shot its gales out far ahead today as it pushed slowly and steadily towards the Louisiana coast.

Out in the rich oil areas of the Gulf of Mexico, thousands of workers left their oil rigs and rushed by helicopters to shore. On the mainland itself residents prepared to evacuate their homes from the lowlands of south Louisiana.

The first hurricane of the season was centered in the Gulf of Mexico about 300 miles south of Lake Charles, La., near the Texas border. Audrey's pace was quickening to a steady 10 m.p.h. as it continued to move north.

The New Orleans Weather Bureau expected Audrey to strike the west or central Louisiana coast late tomorrow. If it does, Audrey will be the first June hurricane to reach the mainland of the United States since 1934. The bureau also predicted that seas would become rough along the coast tonight.

Like all hurricanes, Audrey picked up momentum as it moved closer to the north. In the early morning its pace was seven miles an hour. Later Audrey sometimes moved as fast as 10 m.p.h.

Rushing about 150 to 200 miles in advance of the hurricane were gales, or winds about 50 m.p.h. The Weather Bureau said these would strike the Louisiana coast tonight.

Tides were rising. The bureau predicted they would climb five to eight feet above sea level. The flooding and drowning by rising waters often cost more lives and property damage than the violent winds of a hurricane.

Woman Is Slain In Parked Car On Arundel Back Road

ANNAPOLIS, June 26 (P)—A woman was shot to death today while sitting in a car on a lonely road with a soldier and a bushy-browed, unkempt man said to have been the gunman.

The victim was tentatively identified by Lt. Elmer Hagner of Anne Arundel County Police as Mrs. Margaret Virginia Harold, 36, of Baltimore.

She was dead on arrival at Anne Arundel General Hospital with a bullet wound in the head. The soldier who was in the car with her, a master sergeant from Ft. Meade, was not immediately identified by police.

The shooting occurred on an old log road, one mile from the intersections of Maryland 450 and 424 and about 10 miles west of Annapolis.

Britain Satisfied Headless Body That Of Frogman

CHICHESTER, England, June 26 (P)—The body of the headless skin diver washed up here 17 days ago was officially identified today as that of frogman Lionel (Buster) Crabb. But there were lingering doubts.

Cmdr. Crabb, then aged 46, disappeared 14 months ago, presumably while probing in murky waters near a visiting Soviet cruiser.

The submerged affair occurred during an official Bulgarian-Khrushchev visit and sorely embarrassed the government of then Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden.

The identification was based on circumstantial evidence. There had been newspaper speculation that the headless body might have been a clever Russian plant, and that Crabb is alive in Russian hands.

Teen-Ager Admits Slaying Of Girl, 10

KANSAS CITY, June 26 (P)—The pretty, 10-year-old daughter of a suburban Kansas City couple was slain last night, and police said today a neighborhood teen-ager admitted killing her.

Shirley Alice Kyle's body was found six hours after she was reported missing, hidden in underbrush a half mile from her home in suburban Gladstone. Her green shorts and striped shirt had been partially ripped away, and her body bore numerous scratches and bruises.

Early this morning, Kansas City police arrested 15-year-old Salvatore Joseph Falbo, whom they found crouching in an excavation near the home of his grandfather. A pick-up order was issued for Falbo, who has a criminal record dating back to 1954, after a playmate of Shirley Alice said she saw the victim walk into a wooded area with a boy she identified from a photograph as Falbo.

for the gunman, but later called off the hunt. Hagner expressed the opinion that the man fled by car. F. L. Bladen, a farmer who lives near by, said the Army sergeant came running across a field to his house about 4:30 p. m. shouting for help. The soldier told him that he and a woman had been parked in a car when a man came out of nearby underbrush, Bladen said. He quoted the sergeant that the man told him he was the caretaker for the property and that he couldn't park there.

The man then asked for a ride to the highway. Bladen quoted the sergeant that the man got in the car and then asked if he had any money. The sergeant told Bladen that when he looked around at the

Nickerson Put Nation First, Trial Is Told

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., June 26 (P)—Col. John C. Nickerson Jr. was described at his court-martial today as a dedicated man, ready to sacrifice a brilliant Army career out of concern for his nation's safety.

Dr. Wernher von Braun testified Nickerson was convinced that Defense Department policy would destroy the Army's guided missile program. And Von Braun said Nickerson feared that without the Army's program the nation would have no program at all.

Added Von Braun, described as the father of the ballistic missile: "He was so completely dedicated to it that any trouble he may be in now is a direct result of his dedication."

The husky, blond 45-year-old former Nazi rocket expert said Nickerson felt compelled to argue for the Army program even to the extent of illegally using secret data to bolster his case. For that he is being court-martialed.

"It was his realization that the Russians aren't sitting on their hands that made him so very, very concerned," Von Braun went on.

Ray Jenkins, a Nickerson defense attorney who was Senate committee counsel in the 1954 Army-McCarthy hearings, asked Von Braun: "Will you say, in your opinion, that he might have been, he acted from the purest, most patriotic motives—to promote the safety of his country—and that's what got him in the trouble he's in?"

"Yes, sir," responded Von Braun, thrusting a prominent chin even further forward. Nickerson, who has spent 19 of his 41 years in Army uniform, has pleaded guilty to 15 charges of security laxity. He admitted incorporating secret data into a document designed to do away with Air Force priority in the development of a 1,500-mile guided missile.

Dulles Speaks Friday On Red China Policy

WASHINGTON, June 26 (P)—Secretary of State Dulles will deliver a major address Friday in San Francisco on U. S. policy toward Communist China.

The State Department in reporting this today declined any hint on the views he will express before a meeting of the Lions International at the Civic Auditorium.

But Dulles' speech is expected to be a vigorous defense of the Eisenhower administration's policy of maintaining its economic and political boycott of the Chinese Red regime.

Pakistan Visitor

WASHINGTON, June 26 (P)—Prime Minister Suhrawardy of Pakistan will visit the United States July 10-19, the White House announced today.

Bond Interest Slash Urged By Governors

Action By Congress, Ike To "Alleviate" Burden Requested

WILLIAMSBURG, Va., June 26 (P)—The nation's governors called on President Eisenhower and Congress today to take action to lower interest rates on billions of dollars worth of state, school and local bonds.

Winding up their 49th annual conference, the governors elected Republican Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois as their chairman, succeeded in Democratic Gov. Thomas B. Stanley of Virginia. They voted to hold next year's conference in Florida.

In the conference's closing session, the governors whipped out a series of resolutions. One of these met President Eisenhower's personally delivered request for appointment of representatives for a task force to survey the possibility of a rollback of federal government functions to the states.

Rebuff To Administration

But in a surprising action the governors also endorsed what amounted to an attack on the Eisenhower administration's "tight money" policy. Democrats have made it clear they intend to make this policy one of the chief issues of next year's campaign for control of Congress.

Although conference actions were taken in closed session, all the Republican governors went along with a statement suggesting Eisenhower and Congress take some action toward "alleviating" the burden of high interest rates. Democratic Gov. George Leader of Pennsylvania drafted the statement.

"These accelerated needs for funds have resulted in the issuance of billions of dollars in bonds," the resolution said. "These bonds have been floated at higher and higher interest rates, thus increasing amortization costs."

No Stand On School Aid

"Therefore, the 49th annual meeting of the Governors' Conference suggests that the President of the United States and the Congress take cognizance of this additional burden on the taxpayers of America with a view to alleviating this burden."

Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan said in commenting on the resolution he felt "the governors are certainly fed up with the administration's tight money policies." All the conference resolutions were approved unanimously, without recorded votes.

In another rebuff to the Eisenhower administration, the conference's resolutions committee, headed by Democratic Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina, killed all proposals for a conference stand on the President's proposed school construction aid program.

China Premier Warns Critics

HONG KONG, June 26 (P)—Premier Chou En-lai told Red China's Parliament today of a vast three-year purge of "counterrevolutionaries," and warned critics to behave.

In a 30,000-word address, Chou accused the United States of preparing for war, heaped praise on the Soviet Union, and depicted the Communist camp's unity as stronger than before the Hungarian revolution.

The speech came at the height of a "rectification" campaign which has stirred rumors of a split between Peiping and Moscow and also lost a torrent of criticism upon the Peiping regime from sources the Communist press calls "rightist."

Chou said a purge of "counter-revolutionaries" after the Communists seized power in 1949 brought execution to 16.2 per cent of the accused—about 1 in 6 of them—by 1952.

This disclosure could be read as a warning to "rightists" who were encouraged to criticize in Chairman Mao Tze-tung's Feb. 27 speech admitting internal "contradictions."

Informers Says He Told Hoffa Of Secret File

WASHINGTON, June 26 (P)—Jimmy Hoffa, Teamsters Union kingpin in the Midwest, was said in Federal Court today to have received secret Senate Rackets Committee data on New York labor racketeer Johnny (Dio) Dioguardi.

John Cye Cheasty, a committee investigator, said he looked over committee files and told Hoffa what they contained in a long distance telephone call to Chicago last Feb. 22.

Cheasty, testifying in Hoffa's bribery-conspiracy trial, said he was serving as Hoffa's paid informer but, unknown to the truck union official, was cooperating with FBI agents.

Hoffa and Hyman I. Fischbach, Miami attorney, are being tried on charges that they arranged to pay Cheasty to feed them the Senate committee's secrets, particularly on the Teamsters Union.

Cheasty said among things he told Hoffa about the Rackets Committee file on Dio was that it contained copies of labor contracts and some background data on Dio. The latter has been under investigation in connection with the acid blinding of labor columnist Victor Riesel.

Cheasty said Hoffa "laughed" over the phone when informed that Dio's file noted that he was a friend of Hoffa's. About that time, Cheasty said, Hoffa ran out of quarters and had to get some more to keep the phone conversation going.

The 44-year-old Hoffa stared almost constantly straight at Cheasty during the latter's testimony. For the most part, the Brooklyn investigator stared right back at Hoffa.

Dividend Declared

BALTIMORE, June 26 (P)—The board of directors of the Hecht Co. today declared a regular quarterly dividend of 9 3/4 cents a share on the firm's 3 3/4 per cent cumulative preferred stock and a regular quarterly dividend of 45 cents on common stock.

Brewster Plans Appeal Of Contempt Conviction

WASHINGTON, June 26 (P)—Frank W. Brewster, 60, a vice president of the Teamsters Union, was convicted today on 31 charges of contempt of Congress.

U. S. Dist. Judge John J. Sirica rejected all contentions of Brewster's attorneys that he was with in his rights in refusing to produce records and answer questions before the Senate Investigations subcommittee in January.

Sirica handed down the verdict without Brewster being on hand to hear it. He had waived his right to be present in order to return to the West Coast at the conclusion of his six-day trial last Thursday.

Brewster faces a sentence up to a year in jail and a $1,000 fine. No date was fixed for sentencing. As is usual in criminal cases,

Idea Of Federal Controls On Pay, Prices Ruled Out

WASHINGTON, June 26 (P)—President Eisenhower today called the upward trend of prices "alarming" but ruled out any new government controls to halt it.

The President told a news conference that to impose rigid wage-price type controls in peacetime would lend weight to a recent forecast by Soviet Communist boss Nikita S. Khrushchev that this country is heading toward socialism.

"And I am not going to be a party to it," Eisenhower declared. He said it is up to both business and labor to exercise "statesmanship"—to forego uncalled-for price and wage increases—and for government to practice "sound, sane policies." Otherwise, he said, "there is real danger of inflation."

Eisenhower made these emphatic comments to 215 reporters in the course of answering questions which ranged from the hydrogen bomb to the civil rights controversy.

H-Test Ban Offer Stands

He said this country has "no intention of pulling back" its offer to seek agreement on ending hydrogen bomb tests even though some of the nation's top scientists have told him it will benefit mankind if the tests continue.

The President said he has been assured the scientists can develop a bomb "absolutely clean" of radioactive fallout in another four or five years. And he said he has been informed the tests must continue in order to find the best peacetime uses of atomic energy.

On civil rights and related matters, Eisenhower said all Americans must respect the duties and obligations of the Supreme Court even though nonlawyers like himself may have "very great trouble" understanding some of its recent decisions.

He disagreed with a newsman's suggestion that the court has no way of defending itself from heavy attacks on its series of decisions banning school segregation and otherwise affecting individual rights.

Court Stabilizing Influence

Eisenhower said the justices "lay out the whole works" in their opinions, adding that the dissents sometimes have had more effect in the long run than the majority opinions.

"I still believe," he said, "that the United States respects the Supreme Court and looks to it as one of the great stabilizing influences in this country."

Eisenhower said that when the court hands down a unanimous decision, as it did in the school case, that puts "certain responsibilities" on the president. That, he said, is why he has asked Congress to set up a commission to decide just what these responsibilities are.

Senate Unit Pares Defense Fund Cut

WASHINGTON, June 26 (P)—The administration won a major victory today when the Senate Defense Appropriations subcommittee agreed to restore about a billion dollars of the 2 1/2 billions the House had cut from the armed forces money bill.

Subcommittee members, declining to be quoted by name, said the next step in their closed-door sessions will be to split up the billion among the Army, Navy and Air Force. They will try to reach agreement on this tomorrow.

Sirica referred the case to the court's probation office for a presentence report and investigation. Sirica continued Brewster's $1,000 bond pending receipt of this report.

"We'll appeal," John K. Pickens, Brewster's chief counsel, told reporters. "There is no doubt about that." Brewster, in San Diego, also said an appeal would be taken.

Three other Teamster leaders, who, like Brewster, challenged the subcommittee's authority, are awaiting trial on contempt of Congress charges. They are Einar O. Mohn, a vice president, who functions as executive assistant to President Dave Beck; Nugent La Poma, secretary-treasurer of Local 194, Seattle; and Harry Reiss, administrator of the welfare fund of Local 227, New York.

One Logjam To First Step Pact Cleared

Non-Atomic Arms Would Be Slashed By "List" Method

LONDON, June 26 (P)—The Soviet Union and four Western nations agreed in principle today on a method of reducing non-nuclear weapons by placing specific lists of armaments under international supervision.

The method was proposed in the United Nations Disarmament subcommittee by U.S. representative Harold E. Stassen.

Its acceptance—at least in principle—by Britain, France, Russia and Canada appeared to remove one logjam to agreement on a partial disarmament treaty.

Both Russia and the United States previously had suggested that the reduction of conventional arms be carried out on a percentage basis, with initial cuts of 10 to 15 per cent.

Britain and France had objected that flat percentage cuts would work to their disadvantage because of their smaller—and possibly less amply equipped—armies.

How Plan Would Work

Stassen's plan would work this way:

Britain, France, the United States and Russia would draw up their own lists of the planes, tanks, heavy guns, missiles and other armaments they were willing to surrender.

Each of these lists would be presented to the U.N. subcommittee, where all would be subject to further negotiation and agreement.

Once each nation was satisfied that the others were making a fair and proportionate reduction, the disarmament treaty could proceed, provided agreement was reached on other points.

After the disarmament treaty came into effect, each nation would place the specified weapons in depots on its own territory but under international inspection.

At the end of one year, provided the international inspectors agreed that each nation had fulfilled its commitments, the weapons could be destroyed or converted to peaceful purposes under international agreement.

Each Would Have Veto Power

Stassen made no attempt to set out precisely what type of weapons would be involved, other than that they should be of a non-nuclear type. Nor did he specify that the lists should involve any percentage basis or ratio scheme. All of these factors, he emphasized, would be subject to negotiation and agreement.

Any nation could block the disarmament treaty if it was not satisfied with the list of any other nation.

Stassen's only requirements were that the lists involve a substantial reduction of weapons, specifically identified in amount and type, and that they be of post-World War II manufacture. This was designed to eliminate any chance that a nation might consign purely obsolete weapons to the plan.

Security Probe Again Delayed

WASHINGTON, June 26 (P)—A Senate inquiry in the field of alleged Communist influence was put off a second time today as a result of recent Supreme Court decisions. Two witnesses refused to testify.

The Senate Internal Security subcommittee postponed a scheduled hearing until tomorrow after two members of a labor union challenged its right to question them. The closed-door inquiry was to have begun June 18 but was put off then to let a lawyer for the two men study the implications of a high court ruling.

The balky witnesses are Howard V. Trautman and Salvatore Testa of New York, members of the American Communications Assn., which the subcommittee contends is Communist-led.

Their challenge today was anticipated and the subcommittee stated in advance that the hearing was to determine whether Congress should make it easier to establish an official finding that a union is Communist infiltrated. Such a finding denies a union the services of the National Labor Relations Board.

Trautman and Testa spelled out their position for Sen. Hruska (R-Neb.), acting as a one-man subcommittee to take testimony in private.

Ernest T. Weir Dies

Founder Of National Steel Corp. Was 81

PHILADELPHIA, June 26 (AP)—Ernest T. Weir, who founded National Steel Corp. and built it into the nation's fifth largest steel producing firm, died today after a long illness. He was 81.

Weir began his career as a $3-a-week office boy in 1890. During his long career he fought the government and the United Steel Workers to prevent what he called "forced unionization" and won. Only last April, Weir stepped down as chairman and chief executive of National Steel. At that time he said "I should no longer remain active as chairman." He continued as a director.

Death came early today in a Philadelphia hospital where he was admitted last Thursday. He had suffered a heart attack last January while vacationing at his summer home near Palm Beach, Fla.

A company spokesman said Weir's death "resulted from complications following a heart attack last January."

A native of Pittsburgh, Weir began his steel career there at the age of 15 shortly after the death of his father.

In 1901 when Weir was 26 he became plant manager of the Monongahela, Pa., works of American Tin Plate Co. Later he managed the firm's large plant at Monessen, Pa.

While at Monessen, Weir met J. R. Phillips, American Tin's district manager. Both Weir and Phillips wanted to start their own steel firm.

The two men purchased the Jackson Sheet & Tin Plate Co. at Clarksburg, W. Va. A few months after the transaction Phillips was killed in an auto crash and Weir assumed control.

After building the Clarksburg plant into a profitable operation, Weir built a steel plant at Crawford's Crossing in West Virginia. The name later was changed to Weirton.

Weir built his steel firm into the world's largest independent producer of tin plate. In 1918 the firm was renamed Weirton Steel Co.

Weirton Steel, Great Lakes Steel Corp., Hanna Iron Ore Co. and Hanna Furnace Corp. were merged in 1929 to form National Steel. Weir continued in control.

In 1933, Weir hit the national spotlight in his fight to prevent the Amalgamated Assn. of Iron Steel & Tin Workers from organizing workers at his Weirton plant.

The Association was forerunner of the United Steelworkers Union. Hugh Johnson, then administrator of the National Recovery Administration, threatened to jail Weir and the federal government filed a suit against him. Weir fought his battle in court and won.

The American Red Cross was organized in Washington, D. C., in 1881.

Couple Sues Contractors

HAGERSTOWN, June 26 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Ralph F. Newkirk today sued their raucous neighbors for $15,000.

The neighbors are three construction companies who operate an excavation pit across the road from the Newkirks to obtain shale used in construction of the Hagerstown by-pass.

The Newkirks and the construction firms have been engaged in a running legal battle.

Last week, Circuit Judge D. K. McLaughlin ordered the contractors to stop their excavating operations at night.

The civil suit filed today asks $5,000 from the companies on each of three counts.

Newkirk said his wife has suffered permanent shock and injuries to her nervous system. He also asked $5,000 for medical expenses for his wife, loss of her services and loss of his sleep.

And he charged in the third count that the excavating has caused damage to their property.

Two Missiles Fired From Test Center

MISSILE TEST CENTER, Cape Canaveral, Fla., June 26 (AP)—The Air Force fired two missiles from the test center today, the first time two have been known to be fired so close together.

The first one around 6:15 a. m. "went up with a white cloud trailing," said Mrs. Nina Joslin of the Orlando Sentinel News Bureau. "It was a terrific white color and with the sun behind it was beautiful. The sound was about as loud as the other shots."

Cabinet Group To Consider Oil Import Curbs

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—President Eisenhower today set up a special Cabinet committee to advise him on whether oil imports should be curbed. The President had been urged by oil state governors a few hours earlier to restrict imports.

The White House announcement did not mention the telegram dispatched to Eisenhower by 32 of the 45 governors attending the annual governors conference at Williamsburg, Va. It indicated that creation of the committee had been in the works for some time.

The mission of the new committee is to study whether crude oil is being imported "in such quantities as to threaten to impair the national security."

Senator Proposes 5% Tax Return To States

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—Senator Neuberger (D-Or.) proposed legislation today to return 5 per cent of federal income tax collections to the states so they may assume "major programs of social responsibility."

He said he advanced the idea as a test of whether President Eisenhower "really wants the states to develop individually new programs to meet important governmental responsibilities, or whether he merely wants these responsibilities abandoned by the federal government."

Neuberger said that the Eisenhower administration did not want to shift to the states highway and airport construction programs "which hold great financial importance for business, industry and agriculture."

Merged Churches Begin Setting Up Administration

CLEVELAND, June 26 (AP)—The Church, and the Rev. Dr. Fred Hoskins, of New York, Congregational Christian administrator.

They were made copresidents of the new church, and also of its national policy-making body, the General Synod, which convened for the first time here yesterday.

The Rev. Dr. L. W. Goebel, of Itasca, Ill., an E. and R. Church leader, was elected moderator of the new denomination with George B. Hastings, a Grant, Neb. attorney, who previously was moderator of the Congregational Christian General Council. They serve two years as presiding officers for the national body.

Conviction Of Young Marine Set Aside

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif., June 26 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Reginald H. Ridgely Jr. today set aside the court-martial conviction of Marine Pvt. Peter H. Green for refusing to accept a rifle.

Green has been assigned to non-combatant duty pending a final decision on his status as a conscientious objector.

The 18-year-old Marine had been convicted of willful disobedience of an order to accept his rifle.

Pvt. Green, a Methodist, contended religious belief forbade his bearing arms.

Gen. Ridgely said he set the conviction aside on the ground that at the time the order was issued "the officer had no authority to issue such an order until Pvt. Green's status as a conscientious objector had been determined by the commandant of the Marine Corps."

Final Arguments Heard In Office Building Suit

Losing Bidder Seeks To Void Contract

BALTIMORE, June 26 (AP)—Final arguments were heard today in the Washington firm to negotiate litigation involving Maryland's 12-million-dollar State Office Building.

Judge Edwin Harlan of Baltimore City Circuit Court arranged to take the case under consideration and announce a decision at a later date. Opposing counsel were given until Monday to file additional briefs of argument.

The injunction proceeding was brought against the State Board of Public Works and Blake Construction Co. of Washington. Bringing the suit were the second low bidders to Blake attempting to void the award—Baltimore Contractors Inc. and Terminal Construction Co. of New Jersey. Blake has been at work on the project for some time. The Washington firm was awarded the contract for the 15-story after its original bid—and bids by four others were turned down as exceeding available funds.

Plaintiffs contend the state negotiated improperly with Blake

State Will Get Welfare Funds

BALTIMORE, June 26 (AP)—The threat that Maryland might lose about half of its public assistance money has been removed.

Thomas J. S. Waxter, state director of public welfare, said today he has been advised that the federal government will go ahead and release welfare allocations to Maryland as scheduled.

Waxter quoted federal authorities, however, that they would watch carefully the application of a new Maryland law. It provides for judicial review of decisions by administrative agencies in contested cases and permits taking new evidence when such cases are heard.

Federal officials had expressed concern that court decisions under the law's provisions might result in destruction of uniformity of welfare administration which is required.

Waxter earlier obtained an opinion from Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert and forwarded it to the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The opinion said it was the intent of the General Assembly that the judicial review be limited to determining if the administrative agency acted within its power to make regulations. Federal aid makes up almost 50 percent of Maryland's welfare money.

Record Enrollment

TOWSON, Md., June 26 (AP)—Towson State Teachers College reported today a record enrollment of approximately 500 for its 1957 summer session, as against 475 for last year.

Kenneth A. Browne, director of the summer session, said this year's figure marks a 20 per cent increase over four years ago when the teachers college began admitting undergraduates to its six-week summer session.

Salaries Increased

BALTIMORE, June 26 (AP)—The State Standard Salary Board has increased salaries for two professional classifications in the State Health Department and established one new one.

The new classification of chief physician, chronic disease hospitals, carries a salary scale of $9,620 to $11,540. It will permit hiring a new superintendent for Western Maryland State Hospital in Hagerstown.

Martin Airport Seen Hazard To Schools

TOWSON, Md., June 26 (AP)—Baltimore County School Sup. Edward L. Stapleton said today he plans to investigate the possibility that operation of jet aircraft at the Martin Co. airport might be a hazard to neighborhood schools.

The 104th Fighter - Interceptor Squadron of the Air National Guard, which has been operating at Friendship International Airport, plans to move to the Martin airport about July 1.

Stapleton said there are 11 schools within a two-mile radius of the Martin plant in Middle River.

only FLOWING VELVET by Jacqueline Cochran

contains wonder-working HYDROLIN—brings dewy moisture to drying, prematurely aging skins

Take a close look at the "aging points" which make your complexion look years older than it really is. These tiny tell-tale lines and crepiness, signs of drying, sensitive skin, are caused by dehydration...lack of moisture in the sub-surface tissues.

Jacqueline Cochran alone has found the flowing formula that gives dry skin the balanced moisture it requires. FLOWING VELVET, with its exclusive ingredient, Hydrolin, literally flows moisture into the deep tissues of the skin and restores its dewy, youthful, cared-for look.

Unique, entirely different from old fashioned greasy facial creams, FLOWING VELVET is a superlative blend of Hydrolin and other rich components, which acts in these three ways:

1. It furnishes moisture that actually sinks into the skin.
2. It provides necessary oils for essential lubrication.
3. It maintains the normal balance of oils and moisture.

What Flowing Velvet will do for you. Tiny lines smooth out...years seem to melt away! Your skin looks smooth, refreshed, radiant. You can use FLOWING VELVET day and night. It's hormone-free, greaseless, won't smear your make-up or smudge your pillow.

Our specially trained Jacqueline Cochran expert will be happy to show you what just a few drops of richly concentrated FLOWING VELVET will actually do for your skin.

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK, June 26 (INS)—Strange, wonderful, sad, happy things spill out of the mail on a neglected desk:

There is meat for Maugham in a letter from a woman who was happily married to her man for 23 years. In 1950 his employers sent him to Okinawa. There were extensive plans for the wife to join him there when he became settled.

Instead, he picked up a fast Mexican divorce, married an Okinawa girl, had two children by her, and died in 1955 of cancer of the lung. Before he died he wrote his former wife and asked her to raise the two little girls if their mother consented to part put her on a quota list which would delay her entrance into the U. S. for years to come.

U. S. and have had loving care from the childless first wife. She writes:

"Their mother wrote to me a week after they arrived and begged me to send for her, as she could not go on living without them. Her letters since have been heartbreaking. Knowing how she misses those little darlings, I can't go on as I have. I want that little mother over here where she should be—with her little girls."

The unselfish woman's earnest efforts have been frustrated. The U. S. consulate's office in Okinawa has denied the mother a visiting visa to the U. S. It will consider her application for a permanent visa, but that would require a chain-smoking chain of command.

Rex Smith of American Airlines writes, "We believe the airlines have a valid case in requesting increase in rates of the CAB. Since 1942 air fares have increased 0.2 per cent. The Consumer Price Index has increased 66.7 per cent since 1942. Rail fares have increased 39 per cent, which does not include increases up to 20 per cent on first class fares and five per cent on coach fares granted in 1957, the 20 per cent applying to six eastern railroads. Bus fares have increased 25.4 per cent. A DC-3 cost $125,000 in 1941. Our jets to be received in 1959 each will cost $5,000,000.

Lufthansa, the German airline, estimates that one of its Lockheed Super G Conquies burns enough gas on a nonstop flight across the Atlantic to send a Volkswagen around the world eight times. . . . The Association of American Playing Card Manufacturers swears that card playing, not baseball, is the national sport. Three out of four Americans dabble with the devers it's pasteboards; 87 per cent of all homes have at least one deck on hand; more people with television sets play cards than those without. (Ed. note: Understandable.) Canasta is the most popular game, followed by contract bridge, after which straggle pinche, solitaire, rummy, 500, auction bridge, hearts and gin.

Biggest recent case involving a serviceman has nothing to do with GI Girard. Guy on guard duty, craving a 3 a. m. smoke, dropped his last quarter in a cigarette vending machine. It jammed. He kicked it and punched it for a time, then did what millions must have dreamed of doing. He pulled his gun and shot a pack out of the blooming contraption. Got a light sentence, thanks to a chain-smoking chain of command.

Rep. Torbert H. MacDonald (D. Mass.), who nearly chose big league baseball for a career, has completed his poll of sportswriters on professionalism and the anti-trust laws. Here it is: 95 said all professional sports should be exempted from the anti-trust laws; 70 said all professional sports should come under the anti-trust laws; 57 said that only football and baseball should be exempted; 33 said only baseball should be exempted; and 20 sports columnists said they were undecided.

We go all the way with the congressman except on that final finding.

New Delhi Sweats It Out In Its Perennial Six Months Of Heat

By CHARLES C. LANE
NEW DELHI, June 26 (P)—It's summer again on the fiery north Indian plain. As though locked in an oven, this capital's 1,500,000 are going through their perennial six months agony of heat sizzling up to 120 fahrenheit.

them in the clasps in their belts. Screens or reeds and roots go up before doors and windows to shield them from the searing sunshine. The mercury goes up now and then to 100.

In May the heat is on. Policemen often disappear from their traffic islands at midday. Ice water peddlers appear—one piece about a third of a U. S. cent—per glass. The lucky few have air conditioners.

Bony horses falter as they pull their tonga taxi carts. Drivers pull them up in the shade for a handful of dry grass and some rest. The massive, sad faced white bullocks pull their carts a little more slowly.

What do you do about a climate like this? Lots of things. The British met the problem by moving both national and state government officers to the nearest cool hill towns. The national government went to Simla for six months each year.

Before the British, the Mogul emperors and their families and ministers moved to Kashmir for its Himalayan breezes. Much of the present grandeur of Srinagar owes its origin to the Mogul touch.

Grass On Flood Levees To Be Cut In Fall

Grass which has grown to some height on the West Side flood control levee probably will not be cut until late in the summer. Some residents of the area had raised the question about when the city would cut the grass which they estimated to be 10 inches high in some spots. The query was put to city engineer

Charles R. Nuzum and Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz Tuesday. Nuzum said the U. S. Corps of Army Engineers at an inspection several weeks ago informed the city it would not advise cutting before next year or at the earliest date—September. Their reasons, it was said, was based upon the fact that if cut, the tender young grass would be dried out and killed by the summer sun. In places other than Cumberland where a similar situation exists, the Engineers advise cutting the grass only twice a year.

Buchholtz had already scheduled the levee grass for cutting but as a result of the conference with the engineers revised his thinking.

Nuzum further explained that along with grass, an annual Italian rye grass had been planted to provide shade for the tender roots. It is this rye grass that is the highest at present but it is providing shade for the more tender grass and giving it a chance to root and grow, Nuzum said.

Buchholtz said when the question of cutting grass was approached originally, the engineers said it should not be touched until it was 2½ feet high and that the city should make only one cut a year. The grassed area is never to be raked, Buchholtz said, adding that the city has equipment on hand and is ready to begin cutting the grass when it receives the go-ahead.

Another and most important aspect behind thinking on the care of grassed plots is that they will prevent erosion, the commissioner said.

Although the city is responsible for maintaining the levee, Buchholtz said it is bound by a manual on maintenance set up by the Corps of Engineers.

Nehru Not A Yogi

STOCKHOLM, June 26 (P)—An aide has explained on Prime Minister Nehru's tour of Scandinavia that the Indian leader is not a yogi. Nehru, now 68, starts every day by standing on his head for three minutes. "This," the aide pointed out, "is not yoga but just an elementary exercise to improve his blood circulation."

Group Files Remonstrance Against Beer License

A remonstrance against a Class D beer license for a North Mechanic Street location was filed yesterday in the office of the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners.

The 24 signers, are against the Class D application made by William F. Jones, 308½ Howard Street, for 116-118 North Mechanic Street, the Queen City Beer and Pool Parlor.

The remonstrants, with Capt. Daniel K. Biggs, commander of the Citadel, as the leading signer oppose the license on four points.

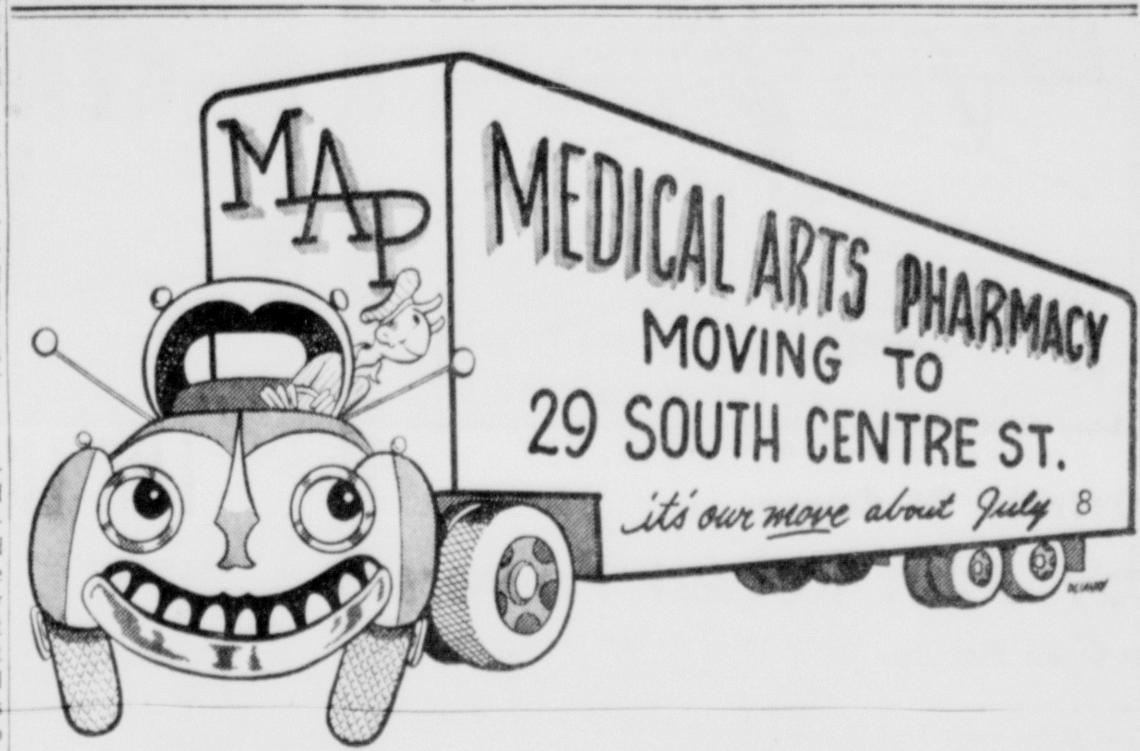

One is that the premises owned by Garnet W. Davis and James Alfred Avirett is located directly across the street from the Citadel where various types of religious services are conducted weekly. Second, the petition points out that the Salvation Army has some type of youth activity almost every night, attracting several hundred young people.

The remonstrants also declare that within two blocks of 118 North Mechanic Street there are approximately 15 establishments where beer, wine or liquor are sold, and it "appears this would be sufficient."

The petition concludes by alleging that most of the business establishments other than those selling beer in the area are opposed to having another one of this kind in the neighborhood. The commissioners have not set a date for a hearing on the remonstrance.

Lying on the floor and putting your feet up higher than your head does wonders for you.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

A Quick Pick-Up

For beauty's sake, try placing your pillow under your feet once in a while. It's wonderful for circulation: blood rushing to the face is excellent for the complexion. This is the same principle that's used with reclining boards in beauty salons that prop your feet in the air.

Here is a fine exercise to stimulate the whole circulation. Lie on the floor, parallel to the wall. Draw the legs close to the body with the knees bent and turn the body around so that the buttocks are close up against the wall. The torso should be at right angles to the wall. Now, in about eight steps, "walk" up the wall. S-t-r-e-t-c-h the body higher until only the head and shoulders are on the floor. If you feel real ambitious, you can take a last step for good measure. Stretch High

Now "walk" downward until the knees are on the chest. Repeat "walking" upward again. And be sure you stretch high each time.

For relaxation, whenever possible, get your legs and hips elevated and rest. If possible, do it the same time each day. This is a wonderful way to relax when you feel pent up...it's fine for untying knots in your nerves

WIFE PRESERVER

Never immerse frozen meat in water for thawing unless it is to be cooked in the water, as in stews. All meat should be cooked as soon as it is completely thawed.

The Constitutional Congress consisted of 55 members, sitting in Philadelphia. All of the states except Rhode Island responded to the call.

when you're so tense you feel positively explosive. Also, if you can sleep without a pillow so that your head will be lower than your feet.

Many people find it restful to lie on a hard floor using a chair or stool to rest their feet on for a 15 or 20 minute period. It's not as difficult as it may sound.

Jealous Lover Is 104

NAPLES, June 26 (AP)—Vincenzo Nappo, who claims to be 104 years old, was arrested on a charge of trying to stab his girl friend with a penknife in a fit of jealousy.

He admitted his jealousy and said "you've never too old to be in love." The girl friend, Filomena Capelli, 65, admitted some flirtations and got Nappo off by explaining, "I like it this way. You see, I'm jealous too."

Teachers' Pay Low In County

Allegany County and 18 other counties in Maryland, plus Baltimore and Somerset, have increased $200. Spokesmen in the department pay for the coming year, in both said.

But there are only two other county commissioners may be counties with lower salary scales expected to act within a few days, than Allegany County. Those instructors in Wicomico have are for Garrett and Dorchester, some balm even though the com-

Allegany County's teacher scale requested $200 pay hike. The pay to $3,300, and the $5,000 maxi-

The maximum next year will be reached after 15 years service, instead of the present 17 years.

These raises are in line with the Green Commission salary schedule adopted by the state in 1954. By the 1959-60 school term, teachers will be reaching their maximum pay of $5,100 (if they get no raises) after only 11 years service.

Allegany County with its $3,200-$5,100 range is third from the bottom in the same category as Calvert, Caroline, St. Mary's and Wicomico counties.

While the 19 counties have boosted their scales, action is pending in four, and one—Wicomico—has rejected an increase.

What effect these pay hikes are having on signing teachers for next school year or recruiting new ones isn't readily apparent. The State Department of Education says it does not yet have detailed reports from the counties on that subject, the Associated Press reports.

But it's common knowledge that states throughout the country have been hard pressed to compete with one another in the face of a teacher shortage and low pay.

Besides heading for greener salary pastures in other states, many in the profession have taken better paying jobs in business or industry.

Most Maryland counties have taken the bull by the horns — so to speak — since Gov. McKeldin vetoed a bill passed by the Legislature earlier this year. It would have granted a $400 across-the-board hike and raised the $10,400,000 needed through a cigarette tax.

McKeldin rejected the bill on grounds he previously stated, namely, that such pay raises were the responsibility of the counties and not of the state.

At present the state guarantees $2,800 minimum salary, but the counties and Baltimore City are well ahead of that.

Within a matter of weeks after McKeldin's veto, many counties had raised their school teachers' pay as much as $400. Others granted a one-year raise or bonus averaging about $200 in hopes that the Legislature will overturn the governor's veto next January.

A report released by the State Department of Education shows that some teachers in Frederick and Talbot counties can expect an additional $600 in their pay checks next year. Actually, the scales in those counties were boosted by less than that but it will take fewer years to reach the maximum.

For instance, in Frederick beginning teachers will get $3,600 instead of $3,200 and after 15 years will receive $5,400 instead of $4,800. The previous high was $5,000 after 17 years.

In Talbot, the hike is from $3,200 to $3,400 for instructors in their first year, and from $4,600 to $5,200 for those in their 14th. The maximum used to be $5,000 after 17 years.

Baltimore City, Baltimore County and the Washington suburban areas of Montgomery and Prince Georges counties traditionally have set the pace. However, action on proposed $400 raises in Baltimore City and county are still hanging fire. In both the present range is from $3,600 to $6,100.

The Montgomery County Council has raised its minimum from $3,604 to $3,800 and maximum from $5,777 to $6,000 after 15 years. In Prince Georges, the scale went from $3,600 to $3,800 for beginners and $5,500 to $5,800 for those with 21 years' service.

In addition to Baltimore City and county, action is pending on proposed raises in Worcester and Somerset counties. In Worcester,

Variety Show Planned Here

A variety show featuring television, radio and recording talent will be presented Wednesday, July 17, at 8 p. m. at the Fort Hill auditorium by the Cumberland Exchange Club in connection with the brace clinic it conducts in cooperation with the Allegany League for Crippled Children.

The program will feature Abbie Neal's Ranch Gals, winners of the Arthur Godfrey talent contest recently; Bobby Brent, billed as the "Elvis Presley" of the fair sex; the Rusty and Doug Quintet, a lively hep-cat outfit, and other artists.

Abbie Neal's band is rated as one of the top girl bands, and the Rusty and Doug outfit has gained recognition in recent weeks with two Hickory label records, "Mr. Love" and "Money."

Post Office Department Awards Contracts For Area Mail Hauling

The Post Office Department has awarded or renewed four contracts for hauling mail from the Cumberland Post Office, a key terminal in the new postal system, to points in this section.

A fifth contract is pending. That is the one that will serve the South Branch Valley from Cumberland to Franklin.

Bids were accepted until May 10, but the contract has not been awarded. It must be let by July 1. Two renewals were star routes from Cumberland to Barton and from this city to Flintstone and Artemas.

John C. Golden, a veteran night club entertainer, will serve as master of ceremonies for the two-hour program.

Tickets for the show have been placed on sale, according to Walter Brock, president of the Exchange Club. Charles L. George is chairman for the event.

Albert L. and Mary V. Brown, of Wiley Ford received the contract to serve the Cumberland-Barton route with two round trips daily.

The route reaches the Frostburg, Mt. Savage, Lonaconing, Midland, Barton, Corriganville, Nikep and LaVale and Wellersburg post offices.

Randolph Bernard Hartley, Frederick Street Extended, had his contract renewed to serve the Flintstone and Artemas post offices.

The third, a new contract, was from Cumberland to Confluence, Pa., and was received by William John Meders of Bedford Road.

The route, for six days a week, omitting Sundays and holidays, will serve Meyersdale, Garrett, Rockwood and Ursina to Confluence, and return by Ursina, Fort Hill, Rockwood, Garrett, Meyersdale, Glencoe, Ellerslie to road was severed by the Post Office Department.

Critics will serve these post offices — Cresaptown, Rawlings, Piedmont, Lake, Westernport, Elk Garden, Mt. Storm, Gorbarks like a dog.

This is for five trips a week, Monday through Friday, Cumberland to Elkins; six daily trips, Elkins to Cumberland, and one trip a week on Saturday's and holidays, Cumberland to Elkins.

This important route is formerly handled by the Western Maryland Railway. On January 1, the mail contract with the rail-

Frederick Area Highway Work Is Moved Up

FREDERICK, June 26 (AP) — U. S. 340 from Frederick to the Virginia State line, rapidly deteriorating under heavy use by trucks, has been moved up in road-building plans, the State Roads Commission said today.

The commission met with the Frederick County Board of Commissioners and the County Zoning and Planning Commission. They discussed State highway improvement plans as they relate to Frederick County.

The commission said U. S. 340 had been jumped ahead of schedule in the state's 12-year roads program.

Five miles of the highway, from Frederick southwest to Jefferson, will be resurfaced this year. Chairman Robert F. Bonney said eventually the highway from Frederick to the bridge over the Potomac River at Sandy Hook — the Virginia line — would be relocated.

The commission also said bids will be opened in August on the final section of the 11 million dollar Frederick by-pass. The expressway has been under construction for three years.

The by-pass, heading west, will dip southward from U. S. 40 around the city, crossing U. S. 15, U. S. 240, U. S. 340 all to the south, U. S. 40 west, U. S. 15 and Maryland 26 north.

The final section will be a six-mile link on the northern edge of the city.

Resurfacing of almost seven miles of Maryland 194, delayed for some time, will begin soon, the commission said. The contract was awarded Patapasco Engineering Company of Baltimore last year on its bid of $667,278.90. However, the work has been held up by slowness in obtaining rights-of-way.

All but one section of right-of-way has been obtained, the commission said today. The highway will be resurfaced between Ceresville and Woodshoro.

Local Couple Is Sentenced In Morals Case

A 70-year-old local man was sentenced to 18 months in the House of Correction and his 43-year-old wife to six months in the Maryland Reformatory for Women, at a hearing yesterday before Juvenile Magistrate Fred H. Anderson on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Prior to sentencing Robert J. and Dorothy Marie Moss, Magistrate Anderson pointed out that they had been convicted on similar charges in Juvenile Court in 1948, and that a condition of a parole which was granted at that time by Magistrate Thomas Stakem specified the couple cease harboring minor children at their home.

The case was prosecuted by State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher, who in his concluding remarks termed the Moss residence on North Centre Street "a foul nest in the community for many years." The couple had been under scrutiny for many years, Fletcher said, but it had been difficult to obtain evidence against them.

This was due to the reluctance of the young people concerned, and their parents, who did not want any publicity concerning their actions. It was only through the cooperation of the various police and investigating bodies in Cumberland and Allegany County that the case was finally brought to trial, the state's attorney said.

Nine girls, ranging in age from 11 to 18 years, were involved in the case.

Officers stated that the actions of Moss, employed by a detective agency, had been common knowledge for a number of years, but that efforts to stop the Mosses from bringing young children downtown during the early hours of the morning had met with no success.

Four girls testified that they had been in the habit of going to the Moss apartment at all hours, and in many instances staying there overnight.

The Moss couple, represented by Attorney Julius Schindler, stated they accepted the young people at their home because it would keep them off the streets, that they loved children and felt they should be paid for the expenses they had in making their home open to young children. In almost all instances, Mr. and Mrs. Moss said, the children came to their apartment with the approval of their parents.

Schindler said his clients expect to appeal the sentences within the next ten days. Bond pending the appeal was placed at $1,000 for Moss, and at $500 for his wife. The attorney had pleaded for probation for Mrs. Moss because of her health.

Men's Club Views Slides On County Transportation

A series of color slides centering on transportation in Allegany County were shown last night during a meeting of the Methodist Men's Club of Centre Street Methodist Church.

Lewyn C. Davis, supervisor of junior high schools of Allegany County, narrated the program touching on various phases of transportation.

A scene similar to an Indian trail through the wilderness, an early pioneer road and the C&O Canal coupled with modern railroad facilities, made up the interesting program.

One scene showed one of the few remaining stone arch bridges in Maryland located on the old Cumberland Road at Clarysville where many covered wagons crossed in the trek westward by pioneers.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, Western Maryland Railway, Wills Creek and U. S. Route 40 were shown in one of the slides of the Narrows. In the picture could be seen tracks of wagons which forded the creek.

The Toll House west of Cumberland on Route 40 was the subject of considerable narration and the page of a toll receipts book was shown.

A sharp, clear picture of Clarysville Inn built in 1807 was among the series. It was pointed out the inn originally was a tavern along the Cumberland Road and later was a hospital during the Civil War Days and figured in the county's transportation.

The slides were made by Theodore P. Foote, supervisor of art education in county schools.

Avon Products

(Continued from Page 24) the night of January 5 at Lark Inn and arrangements for use of the tannery buildings stemmed from that meeting, according to Mrs. Jean Armstrong, secretary of the executive committee.

In a statement yesterday the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce welcomed Avon to the area, declaring "It is a valued addition to the industrial and business family."

The local group said "This new enterprise is added proof of the strategic importance of the Cumberland area as a distribution and transportation center."

Lincoln School

"We sincerely feel that each child has shown some progress, very small in some cases, but generally those closest to the whole situation are quite pleased with the results."

The first of these classes for the severely retarded was begun in two ground-floor rooms of LaVale Elementary School for children in the Cumberland area in the fall of 1955. Some 13 children were in the LaVale class during the second year of operation. Mrs. Margaret Clark Kirby was the teacher of this group and Mrs. Marian Witherup Wilson the assistant.

The West Moves In Self-Defense

There is such a thing as being too patient and long-suffering. For nearly four years the U. S. forces in South Korea have carefully observed the armistice agreement not to bring in new weapons while the Communists steadily built up their stockpiles of warplanes and military equipment on the other side of the armistice line.

Now the UN command has done what it should have done long ago. It notified the North Korean and Chinese Reds that new arms, including jet planes which can carry atomic arms, will be brought into South Korea in self-protection.

Why this move wasn't made until now it is difficult to imagine. There were well substantiated reports that the ink was hardly dry on the armistice agreement before the Reds began shipping new aircraft and other arms into North Korea. With one side rearming and the other standing pat, there was good reason to fear that South Korea might be overrun again if the Communists decided to attack.

Fortunately, no attack came during this long period, perhaps because the Reds, having been badly burned in their original adventure, decided not to take the same risk again. Even now, after the formal announcement that U. S. forces intend to match the Red buildup, the Communist reaction has been milder than expected.

It must be assumed that U. S. forces have the new arms and planes they are talking about virtually on the South Korean docks. And it must also be assumed that the occupation of South Korea, with all its costs and risks, is to be continued for an indefinite period.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Tale Of President Grant

One of the joys of these days is a magazine "American Heritage" which contains, issue after issue, excellent historical articles, delightfully written and illustrated. In the April issue, I have been reading an article about President Ulysses S. Grant, who won the Civil War and who, when elected to the Presidency, probably produced the sorriest Administration in all the 34 we have had.

Our Constitution makes Congress the center of power, but it does not prevent the President from developing his own authority until he may be the most powerful autocrat in the world. Few Presidents have felt themselves called upon to seek to dominate the Congress so completely that it became merely a body of registration, a "rubber stamp," as the popular phrase has been. On the other hand, there have been Presidents who not only expanded their own powers as far as possible, but also employed popular discontent or apathy to gain power over Congress or even to exercise some hidden measure of control over the Supreme Court.

Whenever the division of power has not been rigidly respected, the government either became corrupt or the liberties of the people were encroached upon.

Ulysses S. Grant never ceased to be an army man, loyal to his subordinates but expecting to be saluted and obeyed. He set up a general staff in the office of the White House and his chief-of-staff, General Orville E. Babcock, was always on hand, and always intervening between the President and anyone who had business with him.

C. Wann Woodward, the author of the article on President Grant, to which I refer, describes Babcock as follows:

"... A subtle and unscrupulous fago, Babcock shrewdly implanted suspicions of his betters in the President's mind, plotted their downfall, and sought to replace them with plant tools of his own. He succeeded in these tactics repeatedly and thereby gained indirect control of whole departments of the government. Once a prejudice or a plan was firmly implanted in Grant's mind, he would cling to it with all the tenacity that had toppled the strongholds of the Confederacy. Babcock was at once the leader of the political gangsters and the stumbling block in the way of the talent and ability that might have saved the President. Grant's unshakable confidence in his betrayer was pathetic and all but incredible."

This is the course of undemocratic history. Whenever one who governs believes that he rules and sets up a court of personal friends and cronies who bear no responsibilities to the people, either through elective or appointive office, he imperils our system of government. Grant nearly wrecked our government and our economy. He had an inordinate respect for men of wealth, men whose greatest virtue was a total unscrupulousness in the accumulation of money.

Money-successful men do not always possess a sense of public morals or even great ability, particularly those who accumulate their wealth by speculation without any constructive enterprise. Such men often are a by-product of the efforts of abler and more valuable citizens who are really building the country. Also some of them lay in wait like panthers to steal the products of other men's labor by market manipulations. Such men are really thieves, although the fact that they deal in millions rather than pennies somehow gives them an air of respectability.

Grant knew very little or nothing of the law or of constitutional principles. He had to be led into the mazes of administration and it all depended upon who did the leading. Generally speaking, Grant liked tough guys, people who did not argue or debate but who pleased him by agreeing with his notions which were often ridiculous.

Nevertheless, he was President of the United States and as such possessed great authority and prestige. Right from the start of his Administration, Grant should have known that he was being had. In the "Black Friday" conspiracy, his friends and relatives were robbing the American people. While it is true that Grant saved the day by selling government gold, he waited long and gave the conspirators an opportunity to rob the people. Abel Rathbone Corbin, one of the thieves, was married to President Grant's sister.

The Founding Fathers figured that by a division of powers in the Constitution, they could save the country from the evils of tyranny and corruption. It has not always happened so.

It's About Time

Middle Eastern Peril And Its Complexities

By Joseph Alsop

PARIS

The Greek-Turkish aid bill and the Marshall Plan announced America's intention to halt the Soviet advance in Europe. In the Korean War, the United States assumed the responsibility of holding the line in the Far East. In both cases, the American electorate rather clearly understood what its government was doing.

Now, since the proclamation of the Eisenhower Doctrine, the American government has also assumed direct, continuing responsibility for holding the line in the deeply-troubled, strategically vital Middle East. The solidity and finality of this new American commitment are already taken for granted by our Middle Eastern friends.

But it is not at all clear to this reporter that this immense new American commitment is regarded as solid and final at home. Even after only half a year as a permanent foreign correspondent, one ought to be very hesitant in judging from home opinion. Yet there has been nothing in reports from home to suggest general awareness that we have now taken another step comparable in moral magnitude to the Marshall Plan or the response to the Korean aggression.

This seeming lack of awareness of an enormous new American commitment strikes this reporter as rather worrying. It is all the more worrying because the peril in the Middle East is not at all like the peril that we undertook to ward off in Europe and the Far East. In our two previous experiments in holding the world-line, the peril could be summed up in one word—Communism; the peril in the Middle East is far more complex in character.

Communism plays a role. The Communist parties in the Arab lands are small and almost indoctrinated but the Arab Communists are at least disciplined; and being disciplined, they are effective as agents, political organizers and terrorists.

By the same token, a very big role is played by the Kremlin. The Soviet decision to give political support to Egypt and its satellite, Syria, and the subsequent shipments of arms to these two countries were historical events on a par with the new American commitment in the Middle East. Indeed, these Kremlin actions forced the American reaction.

But the real source of the peril in the Middle East is not the old familiar threat of Communism; the real source of the peril is the movement led and dominated by Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser, which claims the name of Arab nationalism.

Nasser's brand of Arab nationalism is useful to the Kremlin and is therefore supported by the Kremlin, because he has given his nationalism a vicious anti-Western twist. If Nasserite nationalism triumphs in the end, it will mean the destruction of all Western interests in Arab lands. And because of the West's strategic and economic dependence on the area, the end result will be a fatal weakening of the Western alliance—which is the true Soviet objective.

But this, it must always be remembered, is not at all the way the Arabs see the problem. All Arabs are nationalists first and anti-Communists second if at all. For instance, Nasser has been denouncing anti-Communist King

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

We're getting closer to the Glorious Fourth than beans in a bag. There's going to be plenty of televised oratory over the sponsored dials.

We hope they don't include Moscow mutters among the maxillary egg-beaters. We still don't figure why they turned Khrushy loose on the herring-boned horizon.

Before commercialized tele-squinting the radio people had the same deal. On May 8, 1941, this stack of punctuated grunts said, "We're glad the radio people have whittled free speech down to the vanishing point that excludes European dictators."

"We see no reason for broadcasting beefs in guttural static over an English speaking nation. One privilege more beautiful than free speech is the right not to be annoyed by it.

"There is a freedom of silence as well as of utterance."

It was Voltaire who didn't like the tune. But defended with his life your right to play both sides of the record. That was before national hook-ups.

It was Washington at Valley Forge who said, "Put none but Americans on guard tonight." We say put none but Americans on gab tonight.

New Thoughts And Old Ideas On Kidney Stones

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Anyone who has passed a kidney stone never wants to go through the experience again. What are the chances of a repeat performance? Can anything be done to reduce the odds? Roger Baker, M. D., of Washington, D. C. says the chance is less than 1 in 10 of having to go through the ordeal again.

These odds have not changed much in the last 16 years, despite our modern antibiotics and the use of diet as a preventive measure. These statistics led Dr. Baker to question our current concept of the formation of renal calculi. The opinion is held that anyone with an excess concentration of calcium crystals in the urine is more susceptible. A few of these crystals stick together and act as a nucleus.

This sounds logical but there are many loopholes in the theory. First, people with large amounts of calcium in the blood and urine seldom form stones. Furthermore, patients with these rocks rarely have an excess of calcium in their system. The exception occurs when an overabundance of calcium is caused by a disturbance of the para-thyroid glands; 50 per cent of patients with this combination develop concretions.

Dr. Baker thinks a hormone stimulates the kidneys to manufacture a cohesive substance that makes the crystals adhere to each other. Unless this substance is present, the crystals are harmless and are eliminated before they form a stone.

Infection as a cause also is under a cloud. For years it was felt that nests of bacteria acted as the nucleus of a stone. But a survey showed that 56 per cent of 716 stone formers did not have an infection. Furthermore, less than 3 per cent of all patients with kidney infection suffer from stones. If bacteria are so important, why don't they lead to rock formation more often?

On the other hand, 11 to 23 per cent of patients with gout develop renal stones, and the cohesive substance mentioned may be manufactured in gout also.

What about diet? Dr. Baker thinks the evidence inconclusive that milk and milk products encourage kidney calculi. The same can be said of spinach, rhubarb, cocoa, asparagus, and chocolate. But he is not ready to discard our past methods of treatment. The older causes may be contributing, and until more is known, stick with the advice of your own physician.

Newsmen Face Alternative Of Jail Or Censorship By Pentagon Brass

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON. — Ike's Commission on Government Security has now recommended that a newsman who publishes secret data shall be jailed for five years and fined $5,000. Yet last winter when this writer voluntarily asked the Defense Department which portions of a guided missiles memo could or could not be published without risk to the nation, the document was confiscated.

The incident helped to touch off the current court-martial of Col. John Nickerson at Huntsville, Ala., a very fine officer whom I had never met and who was not the source of the secret memo. This is why my junior partner, Jack Anderson, was originally called to Huntsville to testify.

The incident also illustrates how a newsman is between the devil and the deep blue sea. If he doesn't consult the Pentagon, he may, under the new Ike-Commission rules, go to jail. If he does consult the Pentagon, his information is confiscated and a possible source of that information court-martialed.

A newspaperman has a moral obligation to keep the public informed. He especially has an obligation to inform the public regarding a weapon vital to the defense of the nation which appears to be the object of a battle by big business.

The public has a right to know, for instance, when Secretary Wilson's former company, General Motors, together with Douglas Aircraft and Bell Telephone want to control guided missile production through the Air Force; while Chrysler, rival of GM, and Minneapolis Honeywell favor the Army's side.

With the possibility that airplanes may fade out as weapons in favor of guided missiles, the combine that controls guided missiles will dominate defense production in the future. This is something that should not be a military secret.

According to Colonel Nickerson, in his secret memo: "The aircraft industry, and particularly the Douglas Aircraft Co., openly oppose the development of any missile by a government agency. High officials of the Douglas Company have stated that Douglas is paying particular attention to the possibility of killing off the operation at Huntsville, Ala."

It was last November 26 that Secretary of Defense Wilson sided with Douglas Aircraft, the Air Force, and his own former company, to rule that the Army at Huntsville must quit producing the medium range ballistic missile. This put Chrysler and Minneapolis Honeywell, plus the Army, out of virtually all missile work and concentrated it with the Air Force and friends: Douglas, A. C. Sparkplug Division of General Motors, and Bell Telephone. Deputy Secretary of Defense Donald Quarles is a former official of a Bell Telephone subsidiary.

Thus the battle over guided missiles is not just old school tie football rivalry between the Army, Navy, and Air Force, but a battle between big business for the control of the future weapons of the nation.

Another Copy Of Memo

After the original copy of the Nickerson memo was confiscated by the Pentagon, a second copy was obtained from sources which must remain nameless. To illustrate some of the things the public has a right to know about, there follow some of Colonel Nickerson's conclusions:

"The Wilson memorandum (banning the Army from intermediate ballistic missile production) is a broad denial to the Army of essential tools for modern warfare. The Army must be kept modern by application of modern technology to weapons. This is particularly important because of the numerical inferiority of the U. S. Army to the Soviet Army.

"The Wilson memorandum is solely an expression of Air Force views backed by Admiral Radford, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. The Secretary of the Army, the Army Chief of Staff, the assistant to the Secretary of Defense for research and development all hold strong ly to the view that the Army has an urgent requirement for the IRBM (intermediate range ballistic missile).

"The Secretary of the U. S. Air Force has recently recommended in writing the discontinuance of the IRBM No. 2 (Jupiter) program at Huntsville, Alabama. The present Secretary of the U. S. Air Force, Mr. Donald Quarles, is one of the leading contenders for Secretary of Defense. (Since the memo was written, Quarles has become deputy Secretary of Defense.)

"The Douglas Aircraft-Bell Telephone Laboratory is urgently needed to develop a defense against the Soviet ICBMs. (Inter-Continental Ballistic Missile traveling 5,000 miles.) The Army IRBM (intermediate range traveling 1,500 miles) is not versed in anti-aircraft missiles. Douglas is not experienced in ballistic missiles. It is poor management to discontinue development of IRBM by an experienced team and take the experienced anti-aircraft team needed for the anti-ICBM development and put it on the development of an IRBM. This action is even worse because the anti-aircraft team is not experienced in ballistic missiles.

"Discontinuance of Jupiter (Army IRBM) means an ever greater overconcentration of key defense development programs in the Douglas-Bell combine.

"Discontinuance of Jupiter favors commercially the A. C. Sparkplug Division of General Motors Corporation."

The Nickerson memo is long and technical. Some portions have been omitted because of involved technicalities, some because publication might be detrimental to the national security. However, the above illustrates the predicament a newsman faces regarding the alternative of cooperating with the Defense Department or facing a jail term—as now proposed by the Ike Commission on Government Security.

On The Side

By E. V. Durling

Film and television producers are constantly subjected to the criticism that they produce too many sordid dramas dealing with crime, drug addiction and alcoholism. Perhaps they do. However, let us not be too hard on them. Consider the productions of the so-called "legitimate state." Eugene O'Neill's play "Long Day's Journey Into Night" was awarded the Pulitzer Prize for being "the best American drama" of the year. This play deals with the family life of a drug addict and three alcoholics.

HORSES AND WOMEN

Does your wife feature a long or short hair-do style? Don't answer me. It is none of my business. However, it is definitely yours and deserves your close attention. Short hair-do styles are much more expensive to maintain than long ones. It naturally follows that the popularizing of short hair-do styles greatly increases the incomes of hairdressers. And thereby hangs a tale. The Paris hairdressers were major factors in popularizing the short hair fashion. It meant so much more to them financially that they threatened to expel from their association any hairdresser who attempted to popularize any long hair-do style.

AMONG THE MARRIED

In Tennessee a Senator proposed a bill permitting polygamy in that state. He said he felt such legislation was necessary because of the surplus of women in the state. Also that it was not right that so many women should be denied the joys of married life and motherhood. That he believed many women would rather have a half or a third of a share in a husband than no husband at all. Would your wife be satisfied with a one-third interest in you? Does she realize what a lucky girl she is to have a husband all her own?

PRESENTS

During their marriage the millionaire lumberman J. Stanley Joyce presented his wife, Peggy, with $1½ million worth of jewelry. That is probably the modern record for husbandly generosity as to jewelry. However, Baron Von Thyssen, the Swiss millionaire, nearly tied it. He gave his wife, the former model, Nina Dyer, a million and two hundred thousand dollars worth of jewelry. As you know, both of the women aforementioned subsequently divorced their husbands. They kept the jewelry.

Explorer Scouts Study Aviation At Frostburg

D. Varner Carpenter, Frostburg, on left, owner of the airplane in background, is instructing a number of Explorer Scouts of Troop 42 and one from Troop 48 of Frostburg, in their Aviation Merit Badge. These youths have been studying with Carpenter for several months and following this practical lesson, took an orientation flight over Frostburg and neighboring towns to complete their work. They are, left to right, Ronald Ward, Donald Zarefoss, Gerald Snelson and (without uniform) Wayne Lewis. The Explorer program of Scouting aids the leaders to give vocational guidance, social training and advanced scouting to boys 14 years of age and older. Troop 42 is sponsored by First Methodist Church. At present they have six members with each boy having entered the troop at 11 years of age and progressing to First Class Scout or above in rank. As a part of their program, a trip has been planned to Washington sometime in August. The boys will also serve as junior leaders for summer Scout camp at Camp Potomac July 14 to 20. Membership in the Explorers may only be secured by serving at least one year as a Scout in Troop 42 and attaining the rank of first class Scout. Their advisor is Gladwyn Lewis. Wayne Lewis is crew chief and Ronald Ward, assistant crew chief. Interest in the Explorer phase of scouting is increasing.

Painting, Refurbishing Begins At Miners Hospital

FROSTBURG—The J. E. Denison Company, painting contractors of Cumberland started painting the interior of Miners Hospital this week.

The painters began work in the women's ward of the old wing. All ward patients were transferred to other sections of the hospital, and by using odor-free paint, keeping all of the windows open and the doors closed, very little paint odor gets to the patients in the hospital.

The halls of the old wing are being painted Glenwood Grey, and the rooms and wards will be painted alternately Aqua Green, Satinwood, Colonial Yellow, Peach and Bermuda Turquoise. The ceilings will all be white, and eggshell finish paint is being used throughout the building.

After the interior painting is completed the same company will paint the exterior trim of the building.

New tile flooring will be laid over a plywood underflooring in all of the rooms, hallways and wards of the old wing of the hospital. Contracts will be let shortly for the grading and blacktopping of the large parking area adjacent to the hospital, and for the construction of a concrete retaining wall along the pavement leading from North Water Street to the rear entrance of the building.

This work should all be completed during the summer months according to James E. Bangers, hospital administrator.

Frostburg Makes Appeal To Support Red Cross Blood Program

FROSTBURG — Mrs. William S. Jenkins, chairman of the Red Cross Blood Bank program in Frostburg announces that the bloodmobile unit from Johnstown will be in Frostburg July 2 from noon until 6 p. m. to receive blood from donors.

Mrs. Jenkins pointed out that over 80 pints of whole blood have been administered to patients at Miners Hospital since the last visit of the unit, this being in addition to the blood given to residents of Frostburg in other hospitals.

She also pointed out that in spite of the continued appeals and explanations, a great number of people do not understand the great advantages of being able to enjoy this service.

"All residents of Allegany County," Mrs. Jenkins explained, "regardless of where they may be hospitalized, are entitled to free blood transfusions in any quantity required, in any hospital affiliated with the American Red Cross Blood Bank program. The only cost being that of administration of the blood."

"Should we here in Frostburg, through lack of cooperation with the program, and through failure to meet our quota, lose our membership in the program, we would be automatically deprived of this service," the chairman said.

Mrs. Jenkins revealed that the commercial students at Beall High School have regularly mineographed hundreds of letters, Dr. Martin Rothstein, medical which are then addressed and staff; Miss Catherine Close, can- mailed to prospective donors by teen; Mrs. Edward Ryan, motor volunteer workers each time the bloodmobile visits the city.

The quota set for Frostburg on July 2 is 130 pints of whole blood. Due to the many volunteers who were ill with colds on April 2 when the unit visited here last time, Frostburg failed to meet the quota by 10 pints.

Mrs. John Ives is in charge of the recruiting committee, which will call all of the regular donors, reminding them of the date and making their reservations for blood on previous occasions are them at the center. Mrs. Joseph Coakley will register all donors, who have not donated to this Miss Elizabeth Ruge, R.N. will worthy cause are requested to do be in charge of the nursing staff so on July 2.

Simmons Is Victor Over Loop Leaders

Lindy McDaniel Is Bombed By 16-Hit Phillies Attack

ST. LOUIS, June 27 (AP)—The Philadelphia Phillies bombed young Lindy McDaniel and three successors for 16 hits tonight and an 11-3 victory over the first-place St. Louis Cardinals, behind lefty Curt Simmons.

The Phils, without a 300 hitter in the line-up, broke a 1-1 game open with a three-run sixth and knocked McDaniel out in a four-run seventh.

Their victory further tightened the hot National League pennant race.

Chico Fernandez, shortstop obtained from Brooklyn, led the Phil with a 4-for-5 night and three runs batted in.

Simmons gave up nine hits in running his record to 7-3. The Cardinals only good crack at him was in the seventh and by then the Phils led 8-1.

McDaniel's defeat was his fourth against seven victories.

Bucs Belt Seven Homers, Beat Cubs, 15-5, Tie 2nd Tilt

CHICAGO, June 26 (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates, held to 5 home runs in the past 10 games, smacked a total of 7 today in routing the Chicago Cubs, 15-5, in the opener of a doubleheader before getting a 5-5 standoff in 11 innings when darkness halted the second match.

The win lifted the Pirates back into seventh place.

Hot man for the hit-happy Pirates was Dee Fondy, the former Cub, who had seven hits in 11 times at bat to hit his batting average to .365—a 14-point advance.

Three of the Pittsburgh homers came in the first game, the others in the second. Hank Foiles and Bob Skinner hit two in succession off Moe Drabowsky to break a 3-3 tie with none out in the ninth of the second game.

Paul Shuck Wins $100 With Ace In Golf Contest

Paul Shuck, LaVale, captured the $100 prize last night in a hole-in-one contest being held at a golf driving range on Big Savage Mountain.

The LaVale man's ace on the 190-yard shot gave him the top prize in a contest which has been held at the driving range for the past month. Approximately 3,000 persons had attempted the shot prior to last night.

The Hermans registered their seventh victory of the campaign in the City Softball League yesterday by turning back the Old Exports, 3-1, at Penn Avenue field.

Junior Brelsford notched the triumph as Rod Breedlove supplied all the runs the ace Hermans twirler needed with a two-run homer in the second inning.

Paul Lease chipped in with a double and single to aid the victors' cause.

The Exports, who obtained seven hits off Brelsford, scored their only run in the fourth on a circuit blow by McGregor. Meek had a double and single for the losers.

At Stitzer Field the Old Germans edged the Blue Ribbon Bakery team, 3-2, with a run in the bottom of the sixth inning.

John Eversole outduelled Neil Toey as each hurler gave but four hits.

Hudson's triple with two aboard accounted for all the runs off Eversole in the first inning for the Bakery team. The Old Germans registered single runs in the first, second and sixth innings.

Sonny Methed had two hits for the winners. The scores:

Chicago Tops Bosox, 7-5, Stay In Lead

Reliefers Save Game For Wilson

BOSTON, June 26 (P)—Chicago's bullpen brigade checked Red Sox rallies at two critical moments and pinchhitter Earl Torgeson singled home an insurance run today as the White Sox defeated Boston 7-5. The triumph preserved Chicago's American League lead by a half game.

Ted Lepcio's two-run homer following a Gene Stephens triple in the eighth inning cut the White Sox lead to 6-5 and signalled relief for veteran Jim Wilson who wound up with his eighth triumph of the season.

Dixie Howell, sporting a 2.10 earned run average came on to quell the uprising. Pete Daley hit popout, pinchhitter Jackie Jensen and the Jim Piersall skied in the third and the inning was over. After a Minnie Minoso double and walks to Larry Doby and Les Moss filled the bases with Chicagoans in the ninth, Torgeson hit smash off first basemen Mickey Vernon's glove for a safety run. But the White Sox still weren't out of it. Manager Al Lopez brought in knuckleballer Paul LaPalme to start the Red Sox ninth. Billy Klaus singled, Ted Williams walked and was forced by Vernon to put runners on third and first with one away. Frank Alton hit into a fast double play, however, to end the threat.

Orioles Sign Young Hurler

BALTIMORE, June 26 (P)—The Baltimore Orioles announced today that they have signed Milton Pappas, 18-year-old pitcher from Detroit, to a non-bonus major league contract.

The 6-foot-3, 193-pound right-hander will report to the Orioles tomorrow. The club said Pappas had been sought by all 15 major league teams.

Pappas was graduated June 20 from Cooley High School in Detroit, where he had a 7-0 record last season with 66 strikeouts in 10 innings and an earned run average of less than 0.50.

In 1956, the youngster had a record in high school and 22-4 in American Legion baseball, where he allowed less than one earned run per game.

No-Hitter And Title

WESTHAMPTON, N. Y. (P)—Each Merle Wiggins' Bridgeport High School baseball team won its third straight Suffolk County Class B title but it took a no-hitter in a 1-0 game by Earl Yastrzemski.

Boudreau Likes Orioles Chances For 1st Division

BALTIMORE, June 26 (P)—Manager Lou Boudreau of the Kansas City Athletics gave the Baltimore Orioles today a good chance to finish in the first division of the American League.

"Your ball club now is wrapped around speed," he told the Baltimore Sports Reporters Assn., "but you have what I consider 65-70 per cent of baseball — outstanding pitching."

Boudreau considers Boston and Cleveland the teams most likely to give way to Baltimore in the first division. The Orioles now are in sixth place, 2½ games behind Boston.

Boudreau gave full credit to Manager Paul Richards for putting the Orioles "on the road to a great ball team."

"You've got a tough ball club now, and pitching makes it so," he said.

Hoad Advances At Wimbledon In Title Defense

Defeats Fancutt By 6-4, 6-2, 6-1

WIMBLEDON, England, June 26 (P)—Lew Hoad, a wealthy youngster who is too busy to accept the best professional tennis offer ever made, blew over another opponent today in his rush toward a second straight Wimbledon championship.

He defeated Trevor Fancutt of South Africa in the second round, 6-4, 6-2, 6-1.

Hoad, a husky Australian who entered amateur tennis as a poor boy, now is author of a book on tennis, owner of a garage, employee of a tennis goods manufacturing company and collects expenses for playing in tennis tournaments a large part of each year. He has turned down big bids from pro tennis promoter Jack Kramer.

If Hoad drives on to a Wimbledon singles championship, July 5, as practically everyone expects him to do, Lew will be the first since California's Don Budge to win Wimbledon twice in a row. Budge did it in 1937-38.

As the 71st Wimbledon championships moved through the third day without a major upset, another all-Australian final appeared shaping up with Hoad and Ashley Cooper as the principals.

The second seeded Cooper had everything—power, finesse, speed, positioning, rejuvenated forehand and the other shots—in his 6-1, 6-3, 6-3 victory over ageing Jaroslav Drobný, the 1954 champion.

Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, the 1953 winner who is seeded sixth, and seventh-seeded Herbie Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., defeated

Talbert will coach the youngsters for a 26-day period, from the conclusion of the ULSTA junior tennis championships on Aug. 4 up to the beginning of the national tennis tournament at Forest Hill, Aug. 30.

by Pat Robinson

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 26 (INS)—What will happen to the fight racket now that a federal court has overthrown Jim Norris as czar of boxing in this country?

Granted that the court's far-reaching decision stands on appeal, will Norris' stranglehold on the racket actually be broken and, if so, will a flock of fly-by-night promoters spring up all over the land?

Some fear, and others hope, that the decision will kill boxing. Such fears and hopes are groundless. The fight racket has been buried a thousand times and mourners always have been surprised to see the corpse coming to life again.

Fighting never has been in worse shape throughout the world than it is today. But it always has overcome the vicissitudes of outrageous fortune because it caters to the sadism that appears to be inherent in most human beings.

The court hopes that many clubs will spring up to compete with Norris. A few small clubs may start but they won't be able to exist without television. And they won't be able to have TV because they won't have the money to guarantee the TV people long time contracts.

The TV outfits always must have at least four weeks advance notice so as to arrange their programs.

The court has dissolved Norris' International Boxing Clubs both of New York and Chicago, and forced him to get out of Madison Square Garden both as officer and controlling stockholder.

But he will still be able to function in his Chicago Stadium, his Detroit Olympia and his St. Louis Auditorium.

With such a set-up he can still land big fights under any competition and also guarantee the TV people a continuing stream of fights.

The court said it wanted to put other outfits in competition. This is fine in theory. But we venture to say that a man like Norris, whose wealth has been estimated at from $200 millions to $400 millions, will be able to stand plenty of rivalry.

If the court's decision stands on appeal, some successful smaller clubs will go out of business. For instance, the decision may be

Seventh CCC Women's Invitation Golf Meet Opens Today

80 Players Of 20 Clubs Enter Event

Capt. Busch Will Defend Title In 36-Hole Tourney

Tee Off At 8:30; Victor To Receive Old Export Bowl

Eighty players representing approximately 20 different clubs in Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland and the Washington, D. C., area, will participate in the seventh annual invitation tournament of the Women's Golf Association of the Cumberland Country Club which gets under way at 8:30 o'clock this morning and winds up Friday afternoon.

Capt. Lucille Busch, of the United States Air Force, winner of the 1956 event by three strokes over Mrs. Maurice Glick, of the Woodholme Country Club, Baltimore, 161-164, will be here to defend her title, according to information received by the local tournament committee, and Mrs. Glick plans to compete in the tourney for the fourth time. Mrs. Glick last week won the Baltimore city golf championship for the 9th time in 12 years and looms as one of the top choices in the two-day 36-hole medal play event. The player with the low gross score earns a leg on the Old Export Bowl, offered by the Cumberland Brewing Company.

One Bowl Retired

The first large silver sterling bowl was retired by Miss Mary Ann Downey, of Baltimore, winner of the tourney in 1953, 1954 and 1955. In the 1955 event Miss Downey and Mrs. Glick tied for first place with scores of 158 for 36 holes and in the sudden death playoff Miss Downey emerged the victor. Miss Downey was unable to participate in the local tourney because she is playing in the Women's National Open at the Winged Foot Country Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y., this weekend. Other Marylanders entered in the Open are Mrs. Frank Cuth and Mrs. John Barry.

Capt. Busch won the first leg on the second bowl that was put into competition last year.

Cumberland's No. 1 contender for the bowl is Mrs. G. William Bibby, who has participated in six tournaments and was very much in the running five times. She finished second in 1953, only three strokes off the pace, was third in 1952, only four back of the leader, and fourth in 1951, three strokes out. Last year Mrs. Bibby was fifth and in 1955 sixth.

Enters 4th Tourney

Mrs. Glick was runner-up in 1956, tied for first and lost out in the playoff in 1955 and was third in the 18-hole event of 1953.

Among the other leading out-of-town players expected here for the tourney are Mrs. James Swink, of Belle Haven Country Club, Arlington, Va.; Mrs. David Kauffman, Suburban, Baltimore; Miss Midge Kauffman, Woodholme, Baltimore; Mrs. Nathan Smith, Jr., Country Club of Maryland; Mrs. Edward Faraday, Chevy Chase Country Club; Mrs. Iva Noble, Kenwood Country Club; Mrs. Paul Streit, Army and Navy Club, and Miss Barbara Diggs, Manor Country Club, Norbeck, Md.

Other clubs expected to be represented are Congressional, Columbia, Washington Golf and Country Club, Country Club of Maryland, Hillendale, Court House of Fairfax, Va., Goose Creek, Leesburg, Va., Cambridge, Md., and North Fork, Johnstown, Pa.

Thirty prizes will be distributed to the players at exercises at the club at the conclusion of the event on Friday afternoon. Charles S. "Bill" Catherman will act as master of ceremonies.

Past Winners

Past winners of the CCC Invitation Tournament and their scores:

1956—Capt. Lucille Busch, San Diego, Calif., 161.

Boone, Silvius and Hess each had two hits to lead the Post's attack as the winners chalked up their sixth victory in nine decisions.

In other loop contests Peskin's Shoemen registered their fourth win in a row to even their record in the league with a 7-2 decision over Gray's Tavern at Allegany field.

O'Malley Seeks Physical Plant For Dodgers Nine

Would Drop Move To West Coast

WASHINGTON, June 26 (AP)—President Walter O'Malley said today the Brooklyn Dodgers would discard thoughts of moving if they could get the physical plant they want in Brooklyn.

But he added: "Time is definitely running out on that."

O'Malley told the House Antitrust Subcommittee he will make his decision on shifting the Dodgers franchise at the end of this season.

Subcommittee Chairman Celler (D-NY) sought to pin down O'Malley after the Dodger president said he still did not know whether Brooklyn's National League team would be shifted to Los Angeles next year.

"Will the Dodgers play in Los Angeles next year?" Celler asked, as soon as O'Malley took the witness stand at the subcommittee's hearings into professional sports operations.

"I do not know the answer," O'Malley replied.

He insisted under later questioning that he never had asked New York authorities to build him a stadium or parking lots. He testified he had agreed to put five million dollars into a ball park and pay a rental which he said he wanted to keep secret because it was so high it might "embarrass other clubs" which lease stadiums.

O'Malley said he would be satisfied with a 50,000-seat stadium. He said he would like parking space for 30,000 vehicles but would settle for 4,000 at a site at Atlantic and Flatbush Avenues in Brooklyn because of its good subway connections.

If all that was available, Celler wanted to know, would he remain in Brooklyn even though he has invested two million dollars in the Los Angeles ball park.

"Yes," O'Malley said, quickly adding that little time is left for him to make a final decision.

In his discussion of a possible shift, O'Malley said one factor is whether "Los Angeles will be ready for major league baseball next spring."

Earlier, Leslie M. O'Connor, president of the Pacific Coast League, testified that probably five of the league's eight teams will have to move if the Dodgers and Giants go to the West Coast. "I don't know where they can move to," he said.

If the Dodgers go to Los Angeles, O'Connor said, not only will those two Pacific Coast League clubs be displaced but also certainly Hollywood because of its proximity to Los Angeles.

Williams Can't See Reserve Clause Change

BOSTON, June 26 (AP)—"If you can show me how baseball can get along without the reserve clause, you're dealing in miracles."

Ted Williams, slugging Boston Red Sox outfielder, thus touched on the congressional investigation into professional baseball today after first refusing comment.

"I have my own opinion, but the big shots in Washington are handling comment," the 38-year-old bat master said.

"Besides, I'm not talking to you writers any more."

Williams was asked if he thought baseball should continue to handle its own affairs without interference.

"Well, it's done all right for over a hundred years," he replied. "Look, who is against it? Talk to any of the players. None of them are unhappy with it."

Former Minor Umpire Dies

RALEIGH, N.C., June 26 (AP)—Leon Fields, 48, a former minor league umpire, died last night in Rex Hospital of a heart attack suffered a short time earlier.

Fields, a trainman for the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, worked as an umpire in college games in this area before going into professional baseball. He served as umpire in the Piedmont League, South Atlantic League, Southern League and Eastern League.

He had been with the railroad about 15 years, obtaining a leave of absence during the summer months to work as an umpire. He quit baseball about four years ago.

McLaughlin Heads Group For Baseball Franchise In Queens

NEW YORK, June 26 (AP)—George V. McLaughlin, former New York City police commissioner, told a press conference today a group he heads already has asked the National League for a franchise for a team to be located in Queens.

The group was formed recently when both the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants were granted permission by the league to negotiate for transfer of their franchises to the West Coast.

McLaughlin pointed out that his group "may" want a league franchise even if both the Dodgers and Giants remain in New York. He said he realized a 9-team league would be unwieldy, but was certain a tenth team could be organized.

Jockey Bill Hartack, leading rider for the third straight year, won 13 stakes races in Florida during the winter season. Six were at Hialeah, five at Gulfstream and two at Tropical Park.

City Gets B&O Check For Street Crossing

The City of Cumberland yesterday received a check for $50,000 from the B&O Railroad in settlement of obligations involved in the closing of the Williams Street crossing.

The check came to Mayor Roy W. Eves who said he was turning it over to city auditor Arthur B. Gibson.

Eves said the amount would show up as a surplus at the end of this fiscal year but is already earmarked for additional expense in the 1957-58 fiscal year as the result of expansion projects undertaken by the city.

Keeping Up With Hollywood by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, June 26 (INS)—What magic young producer director-writer Irwin Allen used in getting top star names for even the smallest roles in "The Story of Mankind" is his secret. But get them he did. Now, in 60 days, he starts an even bigger spectacle, "The Big Circus," to be made in Todd-AO and technical.

Sixty Hollywood stars will create these circus roles for the ambitious Mr. Allen. At this writing he is negotiating with Rhonda Fleming to play the elephant trainer, Greer Garson, the bareback and Vic Mature the circus owner.

I might add, Irwin has lined up three major circuses for his picture.

I hear through the grapevine that the thing holding up the Burt Lancaster deal to play "Ben Hur" involves the Hecht-Hill-Lancaster company, and the negotiations which President Joseph Vogel has carried on to take over this company.

MGM is eager to get as many independent companies as possible, and H-H-L is a very profitable organization.

Playwright Maxwell Anderson checked into MGM today to do the final polishing job on "Ben Hur," and producer Sam Zimbalist and director Willy Wyler tell me "Ben Hur" will be filmed in Africa and Italy.

Marlon Brando has just bought "Hang Me High," a story by Edward and Mildred Dein, but not for himself. True, he'll make it for Pennabaker, his own independent company. But as it's a father and son story he sent an offer to Gary Cooper and Tony Perkins, suggested, no doubt, by their appearance together in "Friendly Persuasion," to again be seen as pere et fils.

I got a big laugh out of a letter I received from Paris in which it said that Marlon is being such a lamb that he even let them dye his hair blonde when a wig arrived for his role in "The Young Lions" that didn't fit him and showed some of his own tresses.

The busiest family I know are the Masons, James and Pamela. Now the most important thing in their professional lives is the play "Paul and Constantine," in which they will co-star at the La Jolla Playhouse from July 9 to the 21st. They have not appeared together on the stage since 1947 when they played in "Bathsheba."

If "Paul and Constantine" clicks, as producer John Swopes hopes, the Masons will take it to Broadway. There is also a plan afoot to eventually make the play into a movie.

Portie, who is pretty upset at being left out of the play, will spend the two weeks in La Jolla with her brother, and I'm betting she'll give Pam and James a few instructions.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Poor Yul Brynner is in constant pain since he fractured his back and it's agony to wear the steel brace from his shoulders to below his hips.

Mervyn Le Roy predicts that Nick Adams, in "No Time for Sergeants," will surprise everyone. Could be, because U-I is testing him for the Erich Remarque story, "A Time to Love." Joan Collins and Arthur Loew Jr., now thoroughly made up, were in a hand-holding mood at the Mocambo.

At the Luau at one table were Peter Lawford, Pete Rugolo, Lena Horne, her husband Lennie Hayden, and Sid Luft.

Jackie Cooper's excuse for going over 100 miles an hour with his 10-year-old son, John Anthony, in his car, is that he had just gotten a call to hurry home. His wife, Barbara, who is expecting a baby, was sick. Still, Jackie, you shouldn't have gone that fast.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's. X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Goren On Bridge

North - South vulnerable. West of spades was then led for the finesse. It was taken in by West, and the time for decision had arrived. The club suit loomed ominously and it appeared that diamonds must be attacked if the contract were to be defeated. If East held a club honor, then two diamond tricks would be needed. If not then the defense must take three diamond tricks. But the question arose, "Which diamond should be led?"

The winning play is the ten. Dummy covers with the jack. East plays the queen, and declarer wins with the ace. After trumps are exhausted, the club finesse is tried. East gets in with the king and a diamond return traps declarer's nine.

If West should, from force of habit, lead a low diamond rather than the ten, dummy will play low and East has no choice but to play the queen. Declarer wins with the ace and is safe against the loss of two diamond tricks, for when the club finesse loses to East, he can do no better than cash one diamond trick for his side.

Similarly, if West leads the high diamond, South wins, and after drawing trumps, takes the club finesse into East, and dummy's jack stops the diamond suit.

The bidding:
West North East South
Pass 1 club Pass 1 spade
Pass 2 spades Pass 3 spades
Pass 4 spades Pass Pass

Opening lead: Queen of hearts. After South's initial response of one spade, North had a close choice for his rebid. He considered that, in decisions of this type, the opening bidder should incline toward the conservative, whereas, the responder should lean toward the aggressive. He therefore, offered only a single raise, and South had sufficient strength to make

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Alonzo C. Flegie, who died June 27, 1956. The night dew that falls, Though in silence it weeps, Shall bring with verdure The grave where he lies, And the tear that we shed Though in secret it rolls, Shall long keep his memory Alive in our souls. Sadly missed by his Wife, Son and Daughter.

Urges Consistent Safety Planning

BALTIMORE, June 26 (AP)—A Legislative Council subcommittee decided today to ask all state agencies concerned with promoting highway safety to try to agree on specific recommendations—and back them.

Del. Hatem (D-Harford) observed that last year "we had a lot of people saying an idea was fine. Then when they saw it in a bill, they started skirting around and jumping over the fence."

The Council's subcommittee on motor vehicles, in its second year of existence, accepted Hatem's proposal to ask several state agencies to present in advance its proposed recommendations.

Del. Silver (D-Balto 5th), the chairman, said the department heads would be asked to be both "general and specific." Silver said they will be asked to present their ideas in writing by the next committee meeting July 10.

May Invite Officials

In outlining the committee plans, Silver said the officials may be asked to appear in person, too. He also intends to name members of the committee to meet with the various departments.

Among the agencies to be contacted are the state police, motor vehicles, roads commission, and education of the state and the Baltimore traffic division.

Sen. Rasin (D-Kent) suggested the committee should try to have the agencies "concentrate on some major suggestions."

Last year, the subcommittee offered 30 bills. They were received too late by the Council and sent to the 1957 General Assembly without recommendation. Only a comparative handful were passed.

Silver said he intends to have his committee's report to the Council by Oct. 1 this time.

"It might be that we will come up with no bills or only a couple," he said. "But the Council will have a full report before it in time to act."

The General Assembly was slapped on the wrists a couple of times by Gov. McKeldin for failing to pass certain motor vehicle bills.

Sees Accomplishments

Without direct reference to them, Silver declared that "despite the fact a lot of people felt there was a great deal about nothing, we accomplished a great deal in motor vehicle legislation at the last session."

Besides those bills passed, Silver said he felt progress had been made in "conditioning" the legislators toward the subject.

Sparking Hatem's move to have state officials agree on bills before the next General Assembly was a complaint from delegates that they were confused at the past session.

On some motor vehicle bills, one state department was for them and another against. On another, a state official left a House committee with the impression he was for it and knocked it when it reached the Senate. Another department directly concerned with a bill called it unnecessary.

Youths Waive Extradition

Two Pennsylvania youths, wanted by authorities of that state for armed robbery and burglary, and arrested Tuesday near Allamont by Maryland State Police, yesterday signed extradition waivers in Allegany County Circuit Court before Chief Judge George Henderson.

The youths, who were arrested after reportedly stealing a jeep and two .22 revolvers from Everett, were being held at LaVale barracks pending the arrival of Pennsylvania authorities.

Ronald Lee Stevey, 17, a native of Midland, and Allen Jackson, 18, Washington, D. C., native, held up a service station in Coalmont, Huntingdon County, Pa., according to Pennsylvania State Police, then traveled into Maryland with the stolen jeep and revolvers.

The appointment of two teachers in public schools of Allegany County and the resignation of another teacher were announced yesterday afternoon by Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools.

Mrs. Constance K. Kurtz, of Baltimore Pike, a graduate of Indiana, (Pa.) State Teachers College, has been named teacher of art at Fort Hill High School.

Lincoln School Program Completes Its First Year

By ALBERT D. DARRY
News Staff Writer

Allegany County's second unit for the training of severely retarded children at Lincoln School in Frostburg completed its first year of operations with the closing of the school year this month.

Lincoln School is a bright and modern one-room school which was built in 1953 to serve the Negro children of Frostburg and Eckhart. With the beginning of integration in the fall of 1955 there no longer was a need for it to serve its original purpose and the building stood idle for a year.

Since last September it has served as the school for nine severely retarded children. Mrs. Helen Morgan Lehr has served as the teacher of this special class. George Phillips was the custodian and driver of the station wagon until William Shoemaker assumed the duties recently.

The Frostburg Lions Club also has helped by loaning the use of the station wagon to the parents' group for the transportation of the children. Reimbursement for the cost of transportation is provided by the County Board of Education.

Each parent took her turn at helping during the school day and then riding in the station wagon with the children.

"We help these children build more acceptable social and personal behavior patterns," Miss M. Jean Camper, supervisor of special education in the county public schools, explained. "In many cases these children have had little contact with other children. They have not had the opportunities to learn how to share and play together."

Miss Camper then cited six main purposes of this special class for the retarded. They are:

- (1) improve social acceptability;
- (2) increase social awareness;
- (3) establish independent self-care and self control;
- (4) encourage group participation;
- (5) develop better physical coordination;
- (6) stimulate improved verbal participation.

These children are capable, with training, of achieving some persons in the locality involved or cause danger to the property of others.

These requirements are set out in the state statutes. Mr. Jackson said in his communication, and also require the filing of a certificate of insurance made payable to the insurance commissioner of Maryland, in an amount prescribed by him and to be held as collateral in the event of injury or damage.

By reason of the enforcement of the fireworks act, loss of life has been greatly decreased and there have been few accidents as a result of burns and explosions, incident to the use of fireworks in the state, Mr. Jackson noted.

Eagles To Erect Stone Bearing Commandments

A granite monolith inscribed with the Ten Commandments will be placed on the Allegany County Court House lawn by Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

The donation of the large stone by the local Eagles "to the people of Cumberland" is a part of a national program which was originated at the FOE convention last year in Pittsburgh.

About 1,000 other Eagles aeries have donated similar stones to their respective cities.

The monolith weighs 1,500 pounds and was shipped here recently from St. Cloud, Minn., where it was manufactured. It is eight inches thick, 54 inches high and 32 inches wide.

Permission has been granted by the County Commissioners to place the stone on the Court House lawn and ceremonies are being arranged for sometime in August. City, county and state officials, as well as representatives of all faiths will take part in the dedication ceremonies.

The stone will soon be on exhibition in the lobby of the Strand Theatre, where the movie "The Ten Commandments" will be showing.

The committee in charge of securing the stone includes Herman L. Myers, chairman; Francis H. Schultz, co-chairman, and C. William H. Baer, Vincent T. Morrissey, Vance L. Markwood, William R. Wilkinson, Robert E. Danner, William T. Rollins, John L. Farrin, William T. Damm, Frederick Palmer, Hubert L. Gillard, Lawrence I. Matt and Herman J. Miller.

Driver Seeks $1,000 Damages In Crash

An Eckhart motorist has filed a $1,000 damage suit in Allegany County Circuit Court as the result of a two-car collision May 29 which caused personal injuries and wrecked his vehicle.

Anthony Stucin, who is being represented by Edward J. Ryan, is suing Eugene Whitfield, of the Harris Apartments in Frostburg. According to the declaration, Mr. Stucin was driving west on U. S. Route 40 a short distance from the intersection of Route 40 and Parkersburg Road.

The declaration said Whitfield in a reckless manner attempted to pass the plaintiff's car on the right hand side and while doing so crashed into the car, wrecking it and causing injuries to Mr. Stucin.

Deaths

- Brown, Howard C., 67, Cash Valley Road.
- Kifer, Mrs. Harry F., 55, Cresap Park.

Avon Products To Open Area Warehouse Unit

To Occupy Paw Paw Tannery, Employ 50

Avon Products, Inc., leading cosmetic and toiletry manufacturers and distributors, yesterday announced the opening of additional warehousing and distribution facilities at Paw Paw which will employ 50 persons at the start.

Robert C. Madden, general manager of the Mid-Atlantic Division of Avon, said the area to be handled by the Paw Paw organization will be West Virginia, Virginia, western Pennsylvania and part of Maryland. Direction and overall supervision of the new facilities will be handled from Newark, Del., headquarters of the Mid-Atlantic Division.

Operations are scheduled to begin July 1.

According to William Golladay, president of the Paw Paw Progressive Citizens Group, Avon will use three buildings erected in 1940 by the U. S. Leather Company for shoe sole sorting and cutting. The tannery has been closed since 1950. Two of the three metal-clad buildings are two-stories, Golladay added.

Cites Cooperation

Madden had this to say about opening of the new Avon facilities:

"We spent a great deal of time studying various locations in this section. Our final decision to locate in Paw Paw was influenced by the available space and the cooperation offered by the residents of Paw Paw. In addition to these were the splendid cooperation of the Area Development Department of the Potomac Edison System and the plant owners, Paw Paw Industries, Inc."

"Clarence Babcock will be the manager in charge at Paw Paw. He is a veteran of over 14 years' service with Avon and is thoroughly familiar with operations to be handled in Paw Paw."

"At the start of operations, about 50 people will be employed. With the exception of Mr. Babcock, all have been selected from the immediate vicinity and are now undergoing indoctrination and training."

"We Like The People"

"Avon is glad to be located in Paw Paw. We like the people and all they have done and will do for us. By the same token, Avon will contribute to the further progress of the community."

"Starting of operations by Avon in Paw Paw marks another forward step in the sound growth and progress of the company. Our sincere thanks go to our sales representatives who sell the merchandise and to the customers who use our products for making this move possible," Madden said.

The Chamber of Commerce said it was December 11, 1956, when it got the first inquiry from Madden concerning an Avon facility and it was specified the location was to be in the Cumberland area.

The tannery property at Paw Paw was suggested but investigation revealed at that time that the property was overrented for warehouse purposes.

Madden was informed of the findings and the Chamber, at the same time, approached the possibility of erecting a new building for the company here. Madden informed the Chamber, however, that the company was not considering a new building but a structure already in existence.

Then on January 5 of this year representatives of the firm came here for a meeting and luncheon at the Fort Cumberland Hotel, "A Valued Addition"

The local men were told Avon had decided to locate in the Cumberland area and preferred to move into an existing building. They did not close the door on a new building here but repeated their primary concern was an existing structure. One existing facility here was shown to the company men but was not satisfactory.

The Paw Paw Citizens Group met with Avon representatives

Light Plane Is Forced To Land

The motor of a Great Lakes biplane yanked out over Cumberland yesterday afternoon and Warren Mullenax, veteran pilot, made a forced landing on a farm near the Cumberland Municipal Airport at Wiley Ford.

Mr. Mullenax was uninjured and the plane apparently was undamaged in the landing on the Kline farm, located over a bluff off Runway 24 of the airport.

Engine trouble developed as Mr. Mullenax, traveling alone, was flying over the Cumberland area. Unable to get to the runway, he spotted a large open field along the Potomac River bottom and brought the plane in safely.

The wings of the plane were removed and the craft was towed back to the airport.

The forced landing was made about 5 p. m. yesterday. A number of shoppers on downtown streets were watching the circling plane when its engine sputtered and quit.

Town Council Airs Complaint By Teen-Agers

Police Officer Used Tear Gas

A delegation of some 25 West-ernport and Piedmont teen-agers appeared before the Mayor and Town Council of Westernport last night for an informal hearing involving a gathering which a policeman broke up by firing a tear gas bomb.

According to Mayor Okey Michael, Town Police Officer Albert Barnard said he had warned some eight or 10 young people about blocking pedestrian traffic in front of Clyde Broadwater's confectionery on Main Street last Saturday night.

The officer explained that the sidewalk at this point was cut back several feet some time ago to widen the street, and is narrow at this point.

He said that he asked some of the young men and two girls who were in front of the store to refrain from blocking the sidewalk. The officer said he warned them twice.

On a third attempt to keep the sidewalk clear, one of the youths made a "smart remark," so the officer fired a tear gas shell to clear the area. Mr. Broadwater said there were two dozen or more young people in his place of business at the time.

Mayor Michael read the town's ordinances pertaining to blocking sidewalks, loafing and congregating on the streets, and said this type of conduct cannot be tolerated, as it is dangerous because people who are required to step into the street to pass a group could be struck by traffic.

Mayor Michael also told the officer and the delegation, "There will be no more tear gas bombs." He said the officer may have made a mistake. But he also stated there have been numerous complaints recently about the conduct of some teen-age residents in the community.
